Dual Mono means 2 individual mono channels. Dual Mono is mainly used to apply 2 different languages to one program. This function is similar to multichannel sound function supported in TV or VCR. 2 mono channels can be combined into total 4 values; STEREO, LEFT MONO, RIGHT MONO and MIXED MONO.

4 Select a Dynamic Range.

Dynamic range can differ by users and their watching environment. High-density audio programs like movies have wide dynamic range. In the dynamic range, explosion sounds 20dB higher and rustle of leaves sounds 50dB less than conversation. Sometimes, depending on watching environment, loud sound should be heard louder while soft sound should be heard softer. Likewise, very soft sound is not audible and viewers should raise the sound level.

Set "OFF" to view a program in the dynamic range as recorded in disc. If you hear loud sound softer and soft sound louder, set a suitable value below "MAX".
