Introduction

Welcome to the Laybotpro software and thank you for having the foresight to purchase this software. I'm sure you will be extremely pleased once you start seeing the potential of the software and how it can help you in taking daily amounts from Betfair much more consistently.

I initially designed the software from a quest to find strategies that worked in the greyhound racing market. Liquidity doesn't enter the market until a few minutes before the race start and so you had to be at your pc to place a bet or monitor the race. Now there are other applications out there but they are usually only available for expensive recurring monthly fees so I wasn't interested. I decided to design my own program with the functions I required and here is the result of many months work.

This will be just the beginning and hopefully based on your feedback we can improve the bot software and include other new features. For a more advanced software see www.betbotpro.com

Please make sure you read everything so you understand the functions and operation of the software fully. If you have any questions please don't hesitate to email or use the forum via the members area.

The secret to success is not being greedy, accepting a sensible profit target everyday depending on your risk and bank available & limit your losses. Losses are inevitable but if you treat it like a business, they are simply business expenses. Aiming to be profitable in the longer term is what your after, finding that edge.

One thing you will notice when running the software is that profits can build up quickly. Remember they can also be taken away quickly so don't get greedy and take your profit and call it a day.

There are so many strategies you can use it's almost impossible to cover all of them. You can use your own system, or simply follow a lay tipster's recommendation. You could also lay the tips given by a back to win tipster that has a terrible record.

With greyhounds you can lay the dog with the fastest time, slowest time etc by looking at the form cards on racingpost.co.uk or Betfair. You could lay all dogs in Trap1 or lay all favourite dogs between certain odds. The choice is really endless.

Pre-Requisites

You need a windows based PC (XP, Vista, 7, 8 etc.) with Microsoft .Net v4 installed. You can download that here if required but most PC's will have it already:

<http://www.microsoft.com/en-us/download/details.aspx?id=17851>

If you have Windows 8 then you likely already have it enabled.

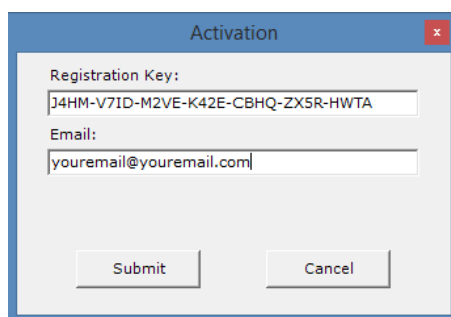

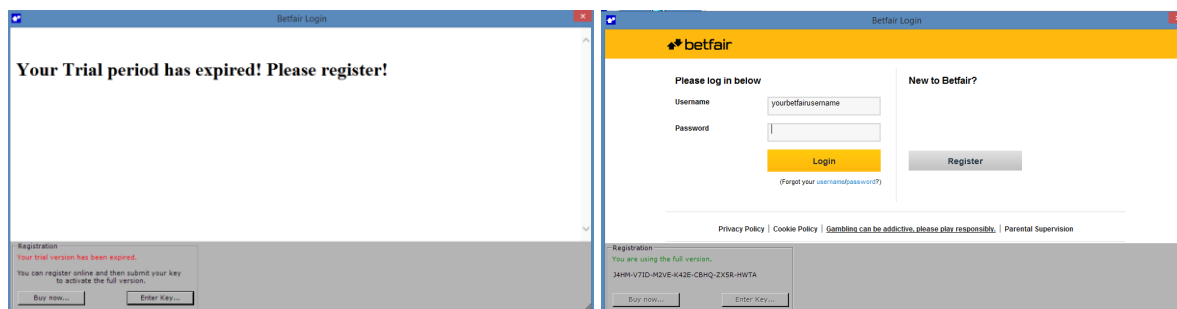

You also need a screen resolution of 1024x768 or higher otherwise problems occur.

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

Once you have downloaded the software, double click the Laybotpro_setup.msi setup file to install the software. Run the software using the icon on your desktop.

If you are using the trial then just login using your Betfair account details. You will be able to use the software for a number of days.

If you have purchased the software then enter your activation key by clicking the Enter Key button and in the box provided, validate your license. The Betfair login will then be enabled.

Quick Start

Login with your Betfair username and password (Warning: You must have a funded Betfair account to login, if you have no funds an error will occur.)

Click to select the races you want to load 'Dogs', 'Horses' or both.

Select if you want simulation or live mode (To change modes you must reload the races)

Click 'Load Races' button to load the day's races.

Set your Min and Max Lay Odds.

Set your 'Initial Stake'.

Set the time before the race starts to place your bet.

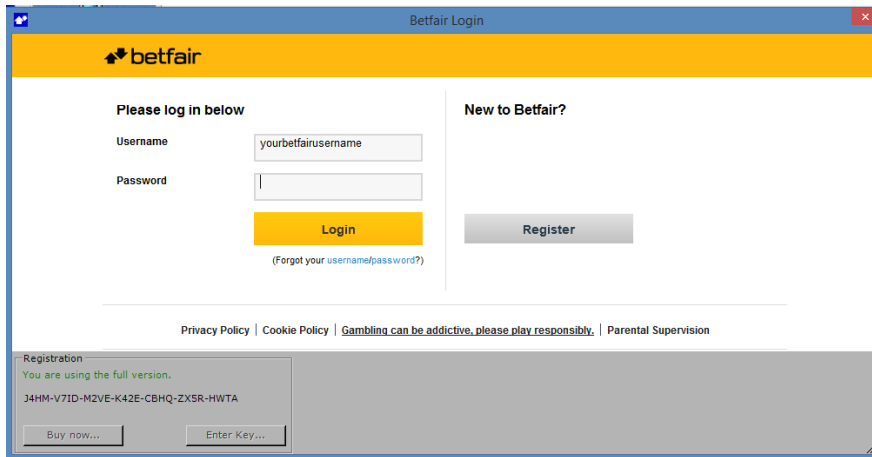

Decide on a sensible 'Max Loss' and 'Max Profit'

Choose your staking plan.

Make your selections.

Getting Started

Once you have started the software using the desktop icon and entered your activation key you will need to login to your Betfair account shown below:

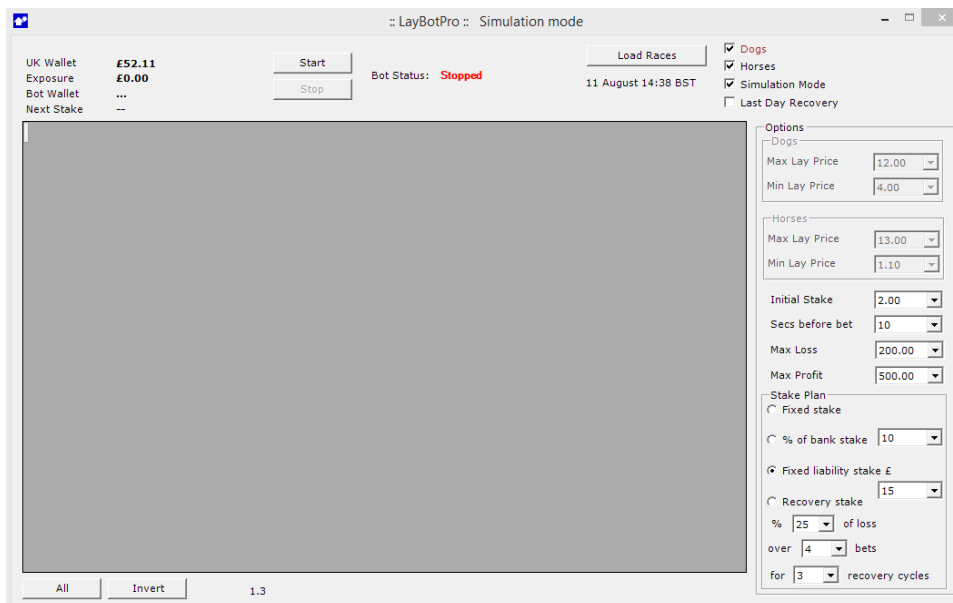

Simply enter your Betfair username and password.

The bot consists of 3 areas:

- 1) The main area showing all the races.
- 2) The top area showing the account information, the 'Start/Stop' button, simulation mode and the 'Reload Races' button.
- 3) The right area having all the bot options and the selections/runners for a particular race.

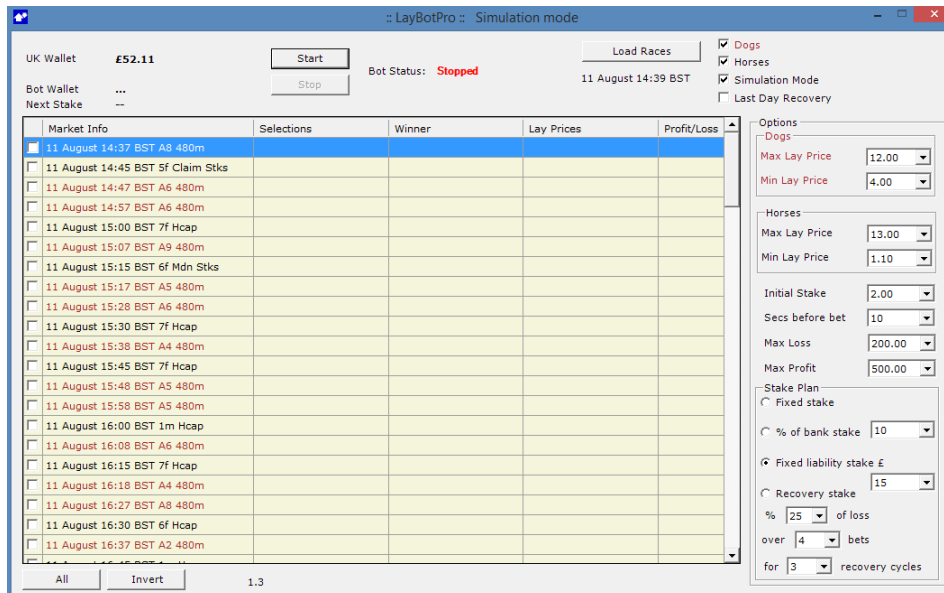

When the software runs for the first time, the main area is empty (grey background). This means that no races have been loaded.

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

Firstly you need to decide if you want to load Greyhound racing only, Horse racing only or all Horse and Greyhound races. Select the appropriate tick box - Dogs, Horses or tick both of them for all races. You then need to click the 'Reload Races' button. After a short delay all the races for Greyhound and/or Horse Racing appear in the main area.

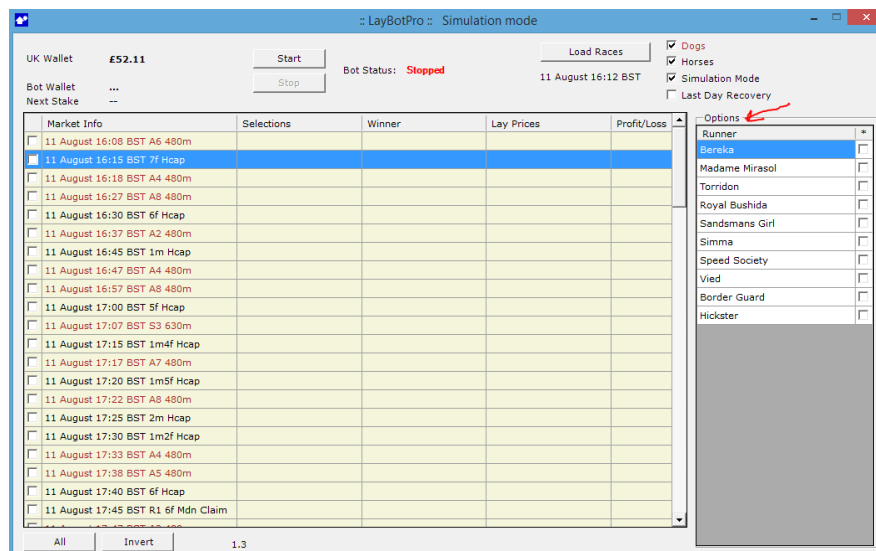

The rows with brown colour fonts under the Market Info column are the Greyhound races and the rows with black fonts are the horse races. In order for the bot to be functional it has to collect the runner names for each race. This procedure happens at the same time the race markets are downloaded from Betfair so it is pretty instant and no need to wait long.

When the background colour of a row becomes beige, the runner names for the correspondent race have been collected. This procedure is only necessary once at the beginning of every day.

Notice that all the times shown (current time is shown in the top area) are in BST (British Summer Time).

If you click on a race's Market Info column (under the second column), you will notice that a list of runners appears on the right area. The runner's list overlaps the options area. You can make options visible again just by pointing (hovering) above the word "Options" with the mouse. The runner list can be visible again by clicking on the race's Market Info.

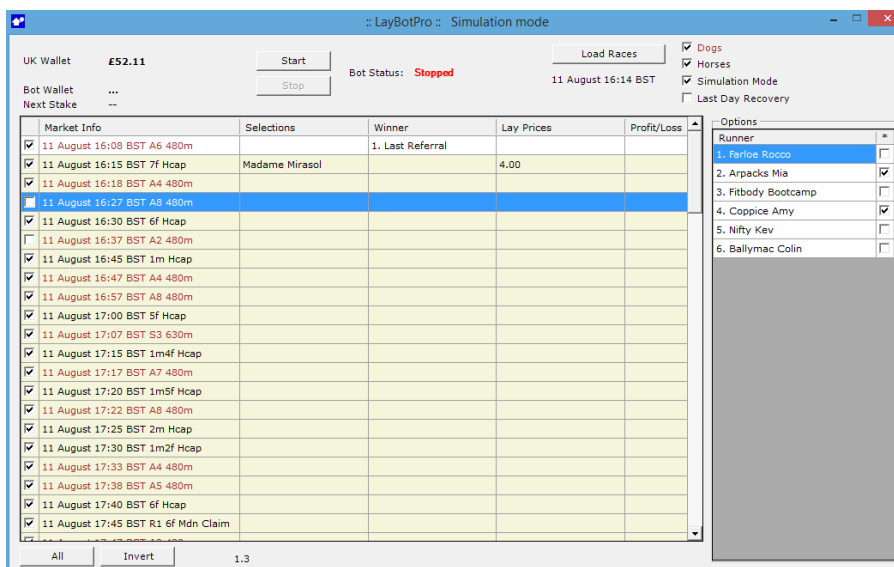

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

There are two options for the selection of lay bets.

A) Lay the 1st favourite: this is accomplished if you tick the check box at the beginning of the row. You can tick all the boxes at once by pressing the 'All' button below.

B) Lay manually one or more runners: this is accomplished if you tick one or more runners in the list on the right area. The selected runner(s) (as a result of one of the two above options) will be shown under the 'Selections' column only when the current time is xx seconds before the race begins, and xx is the 'Secs before bet' option (right area).

While the 'Bot Status' (top area) is Stopped the bot only depicts the selections but doesn't place any bet.

For a bet to be placed, 3 things must happen:

A) The selection is shown under the 'Selections' column and its price is shown under the 'Lay Price' column (as mentioned, this means that a runner has been selected [with one of the two options above] and the time is xx seconds before the race begins).

B) The runner price is less than 'Maximum Lay Price' and more than 'Minimum Lay Price' (right area) for Dogs or Horses.

C) The 'Bot Status' (top area) is Running. This is accomplished by pressing the 'Start' or 'Restart' button (top area).

When one or more lay bets have been placed for a race, the row appears with a pink background and the 'Lay Prices' column shows the Matched or Unmatched placed bets.

When a market is suspended the row has a red background and when it turns in-play the row has a green background. When the race is closed and we have a winner, the row has white background.

When the profit/loss for a race is available from the Betfair, it appears under the 'Profit/Loss' column and updates the account information and possibly the next stake value.

UK Wallet – This is your Betfair account funds.

Exposure – This is shown only in live mode and shows you what liability you have with placed bets.

Bot Wallet – This is the profit/loss of the day's bets. This is always reset at the beginning of a new day. This does not include commissions.

Next Stake – This shows the next stake that will be used to place the next bet, depending on what staking plan has been used.

Start/Stop Buttons – These buttons start and stop the bot. The bot status is then reported as either Stopped or Running.

Load Races – This button loads the days races. You need to select whether you want to load Greyhound races (Dogs), Horse races (Horses) or tick both for all races. At this point you need to select live or simulation mode. If you want to change modes you have to reload the races. If you are in Sim mode it will show in the top of the window.

Last Day Recovery - If you use recovery staking and you want to continue recovery from the day before you need to check this box before loading races.

Max/Min Lay Price – You can set the range of odds you will accept bets on using the drop down boxes. You can set separate odds ranges for Greyhounds or Horses.

Maximum Profit

If the 'Bot wallet' (top area) becomes bigger than the 'Maximum Profit' (right area) the 'Bot Status' turns to Stopped, and no more bets are placed, unless the user 'Restarts' the bot.

Maximum Loss

If the 'Bot wallet' (top area) becomes less than the 'Maximum Loss' (right area) the 'Bot Status' turns to Stopped, and no more bets are placed, unless the user 'Restarts' the bot.

The image shows a screenshot of the 'Options' window in the Laybotpro software. It is divided into sections for 'Dogs' and 'Horses'. Under 'Dogs', 'Max Lay Price' is set to 12.00 and 'Min Lay Price' is 4.00. Under 'Horses', 'Max Lay Price' is 13.00 and 'Min Lay Price' is 4.00. Other settings include 'Initial Stake' at 2.00, 'Secs before bet' at 10, 'Max Loss' at 30.00, and 'Max Profit' at 32.00. The 'Stake Plan' section has three radio buttons: 'Fixed stake' (selected), '% of bank stake' (set to 10), and 'Fixed liability stake £' (set to 15). Below this, there are settings for 'Recovery stake' (set to 25% of loss), 'over' (set to 4 bets), and 'for' (set to 3 recovery cycles).

Staking Plans:

1) Fixed Stake: the lay bets are always placed with an amount depending on the 'Initial Stake' amount. The initial stake is selected by the drop down box. E.g. If the initial stake is set to 5 then each bet placed will be £5. You can set this between £2 and £200.

2) % Of Bank Stake: the 'Next stake' (top left area) is calculated by the declared percentage of the 'Account Funds' (= Betfair UK wallet). E.g. If % bank is set to 5% and the funds available are £100 then the stake will be calculated as follows:-

$$\text{Stake} = 5\% \times \text{Account Funds} = 5\% \times £100 = £5$$

The % stake setting can be between 1 and 100. If the stake is below the minimum Betfair bet then you will get a warning by the 'Next Stake'.

3) Fixed Liability Stake: the 'Next Stake' is different for each race and depends on the lay odds. E.g. If the fixed liability is set to 10 you will limit the loss, should the selection win the race, to £10. So if the odds at xx seconds before the race were 4.5 then the stake would be calculated as follows:-

$$\text{Stake} = \text{Liability}/(\text{odds}-1) = 10/(4.5-1) = £2.85$$

The liability can be set between £5 and £500 via the drop down box. If the stake is below the minimum Betfair bet then you will get a warning by the 'Next Stake'.

4) Recovery Stake: The initial stake will be the same as the fixed stake set. When we have a loss (i.e. the selection wins), the 'Recovery' tick box (top area) becomes checked (flag) and the loss to be recovered is shown in brackets. When the recovery ends, the box becomes unchecked again. During the recovery the number of bets and cycles are shown.

You can set the number of races to recover the loss over and also the amount to be recovered over each race. This could be 100% over 1 race or 50% over 2 races what ever your strategy can handle. The number of recovery cycles determines how many times you try to recover the loss if another loss occurs before the recovery has finished.

You can set the recovery % of loss from 1-100%, the number of bets from 1-100 and the number of cycles from 1-25. If you set the number of cycles to 0 you will have infinite cycles ie. It will keep going. Most people will not use this high number of cycles as it can be very risky.

Once the recovery stake has been triggered by a loss the recovery will stop if the loss has been recovered or the number of recovery bets has been completed. The stake is then reset to the initial stake again and waits for another loss. If we have another loss with in the recovery cycle, the next cycle is started until we reach the max number of recovery cycles. Once this occurs the recovery staking plan is turned off and the fixed stake will take over.

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

If you should end the day or your selections with a loss in recovery mode you can tick the Last Day Recovery box so when you load races the next day the recovery will continue where it left off. You have to enable this before loading races if you want the recovery to continue.

Of course if the max loss is exceeded at any time the bot will stop.

Simulation Mode

To change modes you must reload the races.

When in simulation mode it will tell you in the top of the window, next to the Laybotpro title.

When the simulation tick box is checked the software will do pretty much everything as normal except a bet won't actually be placed. The results in this instance are not as reliable in sim mode as they are in live mode. In live mode the results come from the settled bet itself, while in sim mode there isn't a bet to be settled so the result is estimated based on the Betfair winner result. Sometimes these results are missing so a result can not be given but in most cases it works fine.

You can always check the result yourself using <http://www.betfair.com> <http://www.racingpost.co.uk> results for horses or <http://www.thedogs.co.uk> for the greyhounds.

Other stuff

Each morning you have to press the 'Reload Races' button for the new days races to be loaded. Otherwise the old races with their results may appear. The software creates some files in the current directory like 'log.txt', 'properties.cfg' etc. These files have to be left untouched as they are very crucial and mandatory for the bot's functionality.

If you should ever have to reset the bot, you can delete the files. But all the previous logs, results and settings will be lost!

If you need to reset the bot wallet then you will need to restart the software.

To Be Successful

Usually the best strategies are the simplest. If you keep your greed under control it's quite easy to make £10-£15 a day with £2 stakes. Don't get too carried away and try and make small amounts regularly. You can always increase stakes later on when you know your strategy is good.

There are plenty of tipsters for dogs and horses losing. You can check their track records and use them if you wish or simply design your own strategy.

For Greyhounds you could use the form on the <http://www.racingpost.co.uk> or Betfair to select the dog with the slowest time. If the dog with the slowest time is below certain odds then it could be a good lay bet. I'm sure you can think of many more ideas you can test.

Greyhounds

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

Lay random traps in between odds of say 3 and 9.5. Use small profit targets to start with depending on your stakes (i.e. £10). The day below was a good day with £2 stakes. On this occasion the recovery stake was used. You can also try fixed liability staking and fixed staking if your not keen on recovery which can be more risky.

The screenshot shows the LayBotPro interface in Simulation mode. The top bar displays the UK Wallet (£0.00), Bot Wallet (£11.11), and Bot Status (Stopped). You could also consider laying favourites only competitive races ie. A4/5 or under. What about only laying favourites less than say 3.3. Many of these lose and it can be fairly easy to grab your profit for the day with out losing a lot when the favourite does win. Perhaps just select random races also.

Horse racing

One strategy that is quite successful is to check with the days racing on Betfair. Only consider races with 8 or more runners, although it does work with less. Make sure there are at least 4 horses under odds of 10.00. The lower the odds are the better. Bet on the next horse if the odds are 11 or higher. I tend to use fixed liability with this but recovery can be used as losers are rare.

Trying different odds ranges also works. Such as lay the third favourite between odds of 5.0 and 8.0. I check Betfair late morning for the horses that meet the criteria, then set the odds, select the horses in Laybotpro and away you go. An example of this is below:

Laybotpro Automated Betfair Bot

The sky really is the limit though as there is so many potential strategies that can produce a profit. Another good one is to lay favourites under 2.0, this limits your liability and they often do not win. This can be a good one to use a recovery strategy with. When you hit a winner you should stop for the day. I.e. Lay each for £25 until you hit a winning bet, add your previous loss to the next bet, set your profit target so that one winner will trigger the bot to stop. Depending on how many races there are you may even get away with another cycle.

In the example for this manual we were simply laying the 1st fav above 4 and we stopped at a £20 profit stop.

Systems

There are many systems available on the internet today. You can take a look at racing-index's lay tipster service proofing to get some tips from some of the best tipsters. Other options could be to use an internet system and change or adjust it to suit your own requirements. Tweaking a system can be good so as not to be the same as everyone else using the same system. Be imaginative!

Support

If you need any help or come across any bugs or problems please email us. It always helps that we can see the problem so a screenshot of the bot is very helpful.

To grab a screenshot in windows simply press the two keys together Ctrl + PrtScn which will copy the image to the windows clipboard and then paste to a word document or into a paint document. You can then attach the image or document and send it to us in the email with a description of the issue.
