5. Navigating WebGrants

This section provides basic information for applicants on how to navigate the WebGrants system.

Basic Navigation Tools: The WebGrants Navigation Bar

At the top of each WebGrants page are a series of icons representing action options or functions.

Icons that are grayed out are not available at that time, for that screen.

WebGrants Navigation Bar Icons

The Menu icon returns the applicant to the WebGrants Main Menu. For more information, please see the section, Main Menu Instructions, in this User Manual.

The Help icon opens a pop-up window with basic help information. If it does not contain the information you are seeking, please refer to this User Manual for help with specific components, or contact CBCF staff by email at cbcfallocations@cbcf.org for assistance.

The Log Out icon is used to end the applicant's WebGrants session. Logging out will not save entered information. You must Save the component on which you are working prior to logging out if you wish the entered information to be retained.

The Back icon is used to go back, usually to the previously viewed page, sometimes to the Components Menu. Please note that using the Back icon will NOT save any new information entered on the current page. To keep information newly entered, please use the Save icon before going Back.

The Print icon is active on pages which can be printed. This button will bring up a new window that will display the current screen's contents in printer friendly format. To print the page, use the Print function in your internet browser.

The Add icon is active when new entries can be made. It takes the applicant to a new screen to enter component information. Once information is entered, click on the Save icon to save the information entered to return to the current component. Sometimes summarized information will be displayed within the component. Should you wish to view the full entry, or edit the entry, click on the coloured (blue) text within the entry you wish to view or edit (see Linked Words or Phrases, below). To return to the component, use the Save icon again, or the Back icon.

The Delete icon is used to delete all entered information for a particular component. The applicant will be prompted to confirm that they wish to delete the information, prior to execution of this command.

The Edit icon is active when the contents of the page you are on can be changed. It takes the applicant to a new screen to add or edit component information. Once information is edited, Save the information entered to return to the component. All entered information will be displayed on the component screen.

The Save icon saves all entered information within a component, and takes the applicant back to the current component.

Other Navigation Tools

Linked Words or Phrases

When a word or phrase is shown in underlined blue text, this indicates that this is a link. To see further information related to the word or phrase, click on the word. Clicking on a linked word or phrase will open a new screen with the linked information. This information is sometimes display-only and sometimes editable using the Edit icon, as above. To return to the original screen, click the Save or the Back icon.

Dropdown Menus

For some items the applicant must select one of a number of optional responses. When this is the case, a shaded box with a down chevron will be displayed. Click on the chevron to display the available options and select the one which applies.

Mark as Complete

Applications are entered into WebGrants using "Components", which are mini-modules containing grouped information.

Applicants are recommended to use the Component List as their main navigation point when entering applications, accessing and completing each component from this List. Components can be completed in any order.

On all individual component screens there is a Mark as Complete link on the right hand side of the screen. The Mark as Complete function is used to track which components you have completed and finished editing. Clicking the "Mark as Complete" link will activate a checkmark for that component on the Application Forms Screen. You can still return to components that have been marked as complete for further editing prior to submitting your application as required. All components must be completely filled out and "Marked as Complete" before your application can be submitted to the Foundation for assessment.

Masks

Some items require the applicant to enter information in a specific format, which is indicated through the use of a "mask". One such item is "Phone/Fax" (i.e. This field is pre-formatted to provide dashes between each set of numbers). Please confirm that your information entered correctly within these items.

Attaching Documents

On some component screens the applicant is permitted or required to attach documents to the application. This function is accessed by clicking the Add  icon, or the Attach  icon, depending on the component screen being utilized. Some components require the entry of a brief file description for clarity, when more than one file can be uploaded. Where indicated, the file description field must be filled out. The "Browse" button is used to find the file to be attached, and the "Upload File" or "Save" icon will save the file to the WebGrants systems.

Allowable File Formats: Adobe Acrobat (.pdf) only

Only attach files that are in plain unsecured PDF format (no digital signature, no password protection and no watermark – no background image or stationery formatting applied)

Deleting Attachments

On screens where you have attached a document, clicking on the Delete Attachment icon will remove your document. This will allow you to re-attach a new document.

Radio Buttons

On some component screens the applicant must select from among a number of optional responses using radio buttons. In some case only one response is permitted; in other cases multiple responses are allowed. Please see individual component instructions regarding what is permitted for any given item. To select the desired response, click on the button by that response.

Entering Dates

On some component screens applicants are required to enter specific dates. When this is required, a calendar icon will be displayed. Click on the calendar icon and, using the arrows at the top to scroll through the months, click on the desired date.

Certification Pages

Certification pages are required documents. To complete these components, the applicant must download the certification form from WebGrants. These forms should be printed, completed by the applicant, signed by the appropriate individuals, scanned, and saved on the applicant's computer and uploaded into the application using the Browse button, as above. Where two signatures are required on one form (for Host Organization, for example), if it is necessary to use two hard copies to obtain the two signatures, please scan the two pages into one document and attach it as single attachment.

Other Important Information

Completeness

All questions are mandatory and must be answered in order for your application to be complete and ready for submission to CBCF for review. Certain questions however, may not apply to all applicants. For the components with questions that do not apply, applicants must click the Mark as Complete link, to indicate that the question/component does not apply to the applicant's current application and to enable submission of your application.

Character Counts

Text box entry fields have preset maximum character counts. Character count maximums for larger entry fields will be indicated in the User Manual. The maximum character counts indicated include both characters and spaces. Should you encounter an error in saving data entered into a text box, check the character count of your entry to make sure you have not exceeded the maximum character count, then edit your entry before clicking the Save icon.

Fonts and Scientific Characters

It is recommended that applicants "cut & paste" larger text entries into WebGrants, and proof-read their text entries after saving to ensure that scientific characters and formatting have been retained as desired.

WebGrants Passwords

If you forget your WebGrants password, click the Forgot Password link on the Login screen. Enter your User ID and email address in the displayed form and click Submit. Your password will be emailed to you at the email address in your profile; therefore it is essential that you enter your email address accurately on your profile page.

If you want to change your password, Login to the WebGrants system, click on the My Profile icon. Click the Reset Password link. Enter and confirm the new password. Click the Save icon.

Document Naming

To ensure reviewers are able to match attached documents to the appropriate components and questions, please use the following file-naming protocol:

[applicant's surname]-[detail].pdf

For example:

CIHR-other funding.pdf

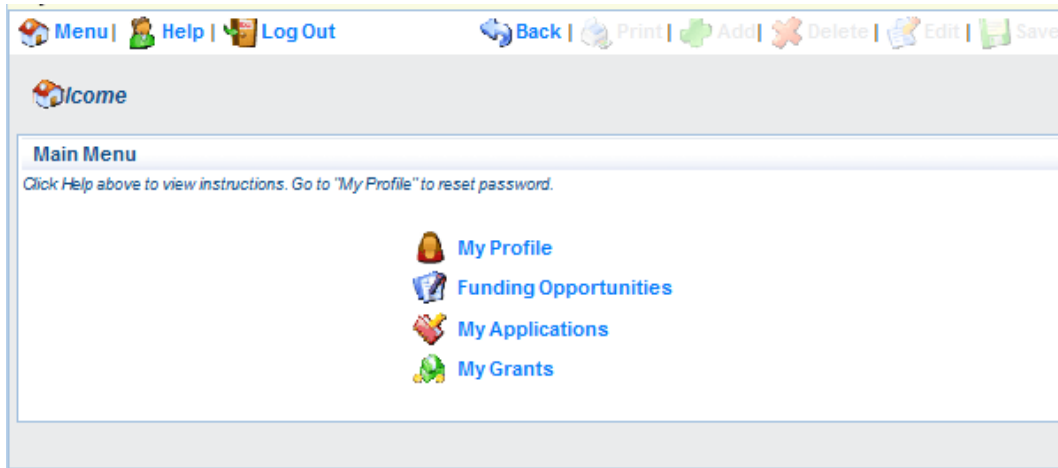

Allen-cv.pdf

Fellowship Supervisor(s)

Fellowship Supervisors are investigators or clinicians holding an academic appointment and involved in areas of investigation or professional practices with a clear and direct relevance to breast cancer and breast health. Fellowship Supervisors who do not hold an academic appointment may be considered, providing they provide a brief outline of the training program, indicating the research/training facilities available and the organization through which the funds would be administered.

Fellowship Supervisors are expected to have the skills, expertise and experience necessary to supervise the proposed Fellowship, including past experience in mentorship, supervision and/or staff education. Qualifications and experience will be assessed in relation to the requirements of the Fellowship plan.

Supervisors are expected to provide input and guidance to the fellow regarding their application, and Detailed Project Proposal and to certify with their signature that they have consulted with the applicant and agree to supervise the fellowship.

If at any time during the tenure of the Fellowship award, the Supervisor feels that the progress of the Fellowship recipient is not satisfactory, she/he must immediately notify the Foundation in writing.

For a complete list of Fellowship Supervisor Commitments, please see the Fellowship Program and Policy Handbook.

Fellowship Mentors for Physicians

Physician fellows must also name a mentor, in addition to a supervisor, who will advise on the planning, direction, and execution of the proposed mentorship plan. If the Fellowship mentor is not located at the Host Organization, a statement should be provided describing the mechanism(s) and frequency of communication with the candidate, including the frequency of personal meetings. Fellowship mentors should be recognized as an accomplished clinician in the proposed professional/research area and have a track record of success in training and developing independent clinicians with a clear and direct relevance to breast cancer and breast health.

Fellowship mentors are expected to have the skills, expertise and experience necessary to mentor the Fellow, including past experience in mentorship, and/or staff education. Qualifications and experience will be assessed in relation to the requirements of the mentorship plan.

Fellowship mentors are expected to provide dedicated support for Fellow's long-term career plans by motivating, inspiring, and challenging them to excel in their breast cancer career.

Fellowship mentors are expected to provide input and guidance to the fellow regarding their mentorship plan (please see Mentorship plan below for details) and to certify with their signature that they have consulted with the applicant and agree to mentor the fellowship.

If at any time during the tenure of the Fellowship award, the mentor feels that the progress of the Fellowship recipient is not satisfactory, she/he must immediately notify the Foundation in writing.

Mentorship Statement and Plan

The fellow must include the following from their mentor: 1) a statement providing information on his/her clinical qualifications and previous experience as a clinician mentor and; 2) a mentorship plan that describes the following: a) the nature of the mentoring that will occur during the proposed fellowship period (may include networking opportunities, opportunities to join a research team or professional group, writing and/or review of manuscripts, editorials, or commentaries, presentations to colleagues, observation and critique of teaching style, as well as one-on-one meetings to guide the development of the fellow's career path) ; b) a plan for career progression for the candidate to move from the mentored stage of his/her career to independent clinician status, including what aspects of the proposed mentorship plan the candidate will be able to take into their independent position and; c) a method for monitoring the fellow's progression towards independence.

For a complete list of Fellowship Mentor Commitments, please see the Fellowship Program and Policy Handbook.

Research involving the use of human embryonic stem cell (hESC)

In keeping with Canadian legal requirements and best practices within the field, research involving the use of human embryonic stem cells (hESC) is guided by the the "CIHR Tri-Council Policy Statement: Ethical Conduct for Research Involving Humans" (TCPS), which include the Guidelines for Human Pluripotent Stem Cell Research (June 30, 2010 version). Research Ethics Board (REB) approval and approval by the CIHR Stem Cell Oversight Committee (SCOC) are required for any CBCF-funded project proposing to utilize human embryonic stem cells.

8.14 Knowledge Translation Plan

The Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation's vision is to create a future without Breast Cancer. To help us achieve this vision, we invest in relevant and innovative research and training that aims to answer the questions and solve the problems that challenge our ability to completely prevent, diagnose, treat, and control breast cancer.

The fundamental purpose of medical research is to 'advance knowledge for the good of society; to improve the health of people worldwide; or to find better ways to treat and prevent disease'¹. For breast cancer research and training, this means improving our understanding of breast cancer to better prevent, diagnose, treat, and care for those affected by the disease. Answering a particular question or solving a particular problem does not, however, automatically lead to improved health. Putting new knowledge into practice is a process that requires deliberate and carefully considered actions to reach the right audience with the right message to ensure that knowledge is put to use.

The Foundation supports the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) definition of Knowledge Translation as, "a dynamic and iterative process that includes synthesis, dissemination, exchange and ethically sound application of knowledge to improve the health of Canadians, provide more effective health services and products and strengthen the health care system." (CIHR, 2012)

The Foundation expects all fellowship applications to include a carefully considered Knowledge Translation (KT) plan that ought to include training in knowledge translation theory and practice.

Following CIHR's lead, the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation has identified two types of knowledge translation that applicants are expected to consider in the development of their plan:

- 1) Integrated Knowledge Translation (iKT): this type of KT involves those who are the intended implementers of 'new knowledge' gained by the research (i.e. Knowledge Users) from inception of the research (i.e. project development) through to results implementation. This level of involvement ensures that the knowledge being sought, as well as the methods employed to seek it, is relevant (i.e. will fill a gap), and increases Knowledge Users' commitment to utilizing results at the conclusion of the project. While not every project is suitable for a high level of engagement, iKT can occur on a spectrum from low to high engagement, and we encourage all fellows to consider the potential implications of their findings, and to proactively seek to establish the relationships (with clinicians, administrators, and policymakers) that will support putting them into practice from the outset of their research. Knowledge Users may submit a letter of collaboration to articulate their involvement with the project. For applicants proposing a training program only, iKT plans should describe who will be involved in the training (including supervisors and mentors, as well as other contributors to learning), and what their contributions will be to the overall development of the candidate.
- 2) End-of-Grant Knowledge Translation: this type of KT includes any activity or product aimed at dispersing or applying the results of the research (or training, as applicable). Activities and products range from traditional academic communications such as conference presentations and peer-reviewed publications, to those intended for a broader audience such as websites, workshops, tailored reports, fact sheets with actionable messages, and media and public events. All fellows must publish research findings via traditional academic mediums, as well as undertake strategies to effectively share research results with those who would put the results into practice. For fellows proposing a training program only, this KT plan should include any dissemination activities related to training outcomes (such as presentations at Rounds or departmental meetings), including future career plans and how the knowledge and skills gained will be applied.

Fellows are also strongly encouraged to pursue training in the area of knowledge translation during their fellowship. Available courses and other opportunities for training can be viewed on the Knowledge Translation Canada website here. Developing skills and capacity in knowledge translation will further enhance the fellow's ability to effectively steward research results towards implementation.

Knowledge Translation Plan Requirements:

Applicants should submit up to 3800 characters (approximately 650 words) that include the following information:

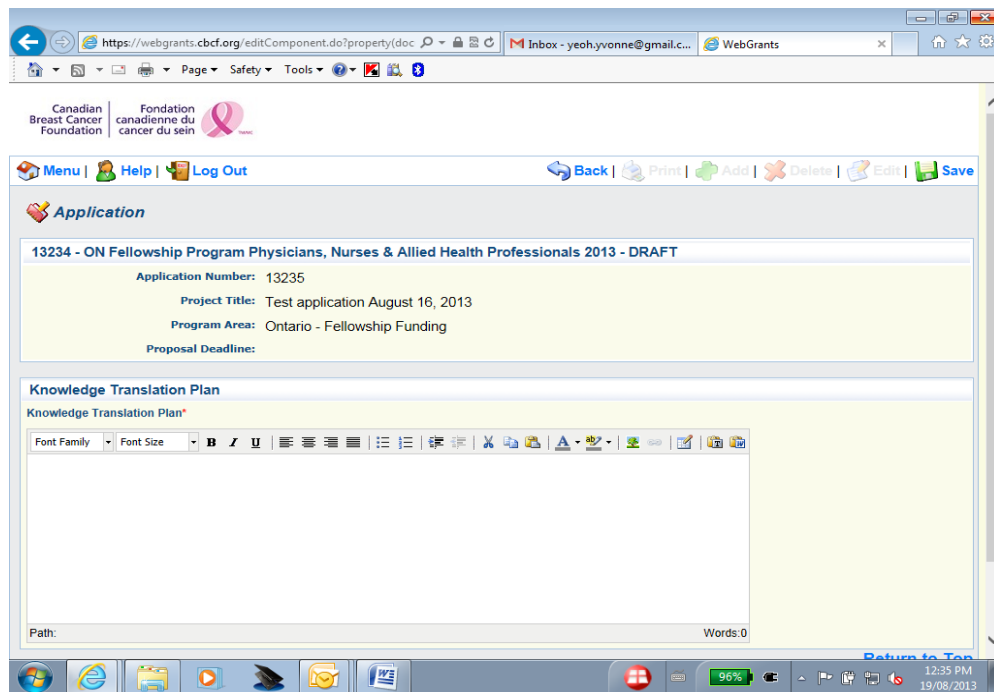

- An integrated knowledge translation plan that describes the gap this training and/or research will fill and how this was determined; who the knowledge users are who will contribute to this training and/or research, and what contact has been made with them to date, as well as plans for the duration of the award; and any contributions made to the training and/or research by knowledge users to date
- An End-of-Grant KT plan that describes not only the academic communication plan (conference presentations, peer-reviewed journal articles, etc.), but also which products (e.g. reports, fact sheets, workshops) will be targeted to broader audiences; the anticipated impact of the different end-of-grant activities, and how these will be instrumental to the implementation of your research results, and/or how the knowledge and skills gained through training will be implemented and shared
- A follow-up plan that briefly describes how the strengths and weaknesses of the KT plan will be identified, and whether the plan enhanced the use of the fellow's training and/or research results
- A KT training plan that describes details of proposed training opportunities – this could include both formal and informal training such as coursework, literature reviews, mentorship or outreach to knowledge translation experts, etc.

Note: CBCF recognizes that each plan will be unique to the type of research being pursued, and that not all research and/or training will lend itself to the wide range of KT activities available. We also anticipate that KT plans may change during the course of the award to reflect actual research findings. For additional guidance on KT planning, applicants may consult CIHR's Guide to Knowledge Translation Planning at CIHR: Integrated and End-of-Grant Approaches, or e-mail CBCF's KT staff at cbcfallocations@cbcf.org.

8.22 Submitting your application for assessment

When you have completed all required application components and attachments, it is recommended that you review the application in detail to confirm that no information is missing, and no further edits are required.

Note: Only attach unsecured PDF files (no digital signature, no password protection and no watermark – no background image or stationery formatting applied)

The application can be reviewed, looking at each component individually or by clicking Preview link from the Main Application menu. In Preview mode, you will be able to click on the links to all attachments to ensure that they are complete.

When you have finished reviewing your application, click the Go to Application Forms link to return to the Components menu. Please make sure that all components are “Marked as Complete”. Click the Submit link on the Components menu.

You will receive an error message if any component required fields are not complete. Enter any missing information and click the Submit link again to submit the application to CBCF for assessment.

You will receive an auto-generated system message that your application has been successfully submitted.

After submitting your application to CBCF all screens become locked. You will be able to view your application but will not be able to make any further changes.

The Foundation will assess your submitted application for eligibility and will advise you by the notification deadline in the Fellowship Program and Policy Handbook whether your application is eligible to be assigned for formal peer review.
