

Using Technology to Help Connect With Others and to Help With Memory - 2010

by Donald Tillman

Social Networking

Getting Connected

- What is broadband?
  - Anything that is faster than dial-up!
- Library - Computers with broadband
- Personal: Broadband (DSL, Cable, 3G or 4G, WiFi, MiFi), FIOS Fiber
- Web Browsers

Web Browsers

- *Internet Explorer

- *Firefox

- Chrome (Google) - very secure

- *Safari (Apple)

- Opera

- SeaMonkey - offshoot of Firefox, useful for some sites

Getting Started

- Get a e-mail/webmail account - free
  - GMAIL
  - Hotmail
  - AOL
  - Yahoo
- Others - free and not free
  - “Not free” benefits - very large e-mail boxes

Getting Started

- Get a e-mail/webmail account - free
  - Why is this important??
  - To get onto nearly anywhere on the web, wether it's Facebook, MySpace, blogging etc. you MUST have an e-mail address.
  - Generally a good idea to have e-mail address and to check on it frequently.

Getting Started

- E-mail names
  - Typically a service will choose a very annoying e-mail address for you. There are some great strategies to help you and your e-mailing friends...
  - Ideally you want an easy one not just for you but for others. As an example don34323-432@hotmail.com would be quite useless to other people: No one would remember it or want to type it. don-the-tall-geek@gmail.com may be more useful and certainly more memorable by others and for yourself.

Getting Started

- E-mail names
  - You may also want more anonymity with your e-mail address. Sometimes by using your first name you may give away your gender or age, which could prove to be annoying with some other people on the net.
  - So the address miwallace@aol.com would be a safe name since it only gives out your last name. Or you could be even more anonymous with smilesandwinks@gmail.com.
  - You may want to consider an e-mail address that may also be functional for professional purposes.

Welcome to Gmail

A Google approach to email.

Gmail is built on the idea that email can be more intuitive, efficient, and useful. And maybe even fun. After all, Gmail has:

Less spam

Keep unwanted messages out of your inbox with Google's innovative technology.

Mobile access

Read Gmail on your mobile phone by pointing your phone's web browser to <http://gmail.com/app>. Learn more

Lots of space

Over 2757.272164 megabytes (and counting) of free storage.

- AOL - www.aol.com

A screenshot of the AOL Mail account creation form. The header says "AOL Mail". The main heading is "Create a Free Email Address". There is a link for "Already a Member? Click here". The form includes fields for "First Name", "Last Name", "Desired Email Address" (with a note "3-16 letters or numbers. It must start with a letter." and "@aol.com"), "Password" (with a "Password Strength" indicator and a note "6-16 letters or numbers. Help for creating a secure password."), and "Re-type Password". Below this is a section titled "Tell Us About Yourself" with fields for "Account Security Question" (with a "Learn More" link), "Your Answer", "Re-type Answer", "Zip or Postal Code", "Birthday" (with dropdowns for month, day, and year), and "Gender".

Email accounts

- With broadband
  - Typically you get e-mail accounts with your broadband service, but they are “attached” to your broadband provider. This means that if you needed or wanted to change providers, your e-mail address bites the dust... Thus why it is more practical to use the free e-mail addresses.
  - Professionals may want their own domain names and larger e-mail boxes. As an example sam-t-nobody@biaoh.org has it's own domain of biaoh.org. This you do have to pay for. Ask me for details if you wish.

Protecting Your Identity

- Do not give out your personal information unless you are POSITIVE the receiving party is a family member or a professional who cares for you and that you trust them:
- Don't share your:
  - Your birthdate
  - Social Security Number
  - Phone numbers
  - e-mail address

Protecting Your Money

- Be careful with:
  - Bank Account number(s)
  - There are a TON of scams
  - They are dying to get a hold of your information and use it against you.

Social Norms

- Over communicating
  - Sharing too much information about yourself or others
  - Sharing too much PERSONAL information
- Good practices with communicating on-line
  - Only say things that you would say to someone in person
  - The on-line tendency is for some people to say very cruel things and we can CHOOSE to be better than that.
- Watch our for slander..
- Be careful with what you advertise about yourself such as “I am alone” or “I live by myself” or “on vacation.”

Social Norms

- For Facebook, MySpace, Twitter
  - Be selective with who you “add” : When you “add” a friend to your account they can contact you through Facebook etc. There will be MANY opportunities to add, that said not all of them are ones that you really want. Facebook makes suggestions that are typically useful as “adds” for friends, but other suggestions may not be or could be harmful.
  - Others may want you to “add them” for other purposes such as advertising or worse.
  - You can always choose to “de-friend” someone.

What is the point?

- Facebook, MySpace, Twitter
  - For many it is a convenient way for people to connect and find each other, such as high school or college friends or co-workers etc.
  - You can send messages to each other without giving your e-mail address, keeping the noise in your life compartmentalized.
  - Easily update your friends on what you are thinking about or what you are doing or what you have accomplished. This can lead to many conversations good and bad.

What is point of...

- Facebook, MySpace, Twitter, Meetup
  - A place to talk about ideas and opinions. That said it is good to consider the norms we have already covered. It's nice to make these virtual places friendly.
  - The ability to network locally
  - The ability to bring families together
  - Advertising (your company) or absorbing advertising
  - Cons: Many have become addicts of these forums
  - Cons: Since this is a virtual world, you can still walk away feeling empty and lonely. The only fix for that is to socialize face to face. Meetup and BIAOH meetings can help with this.

- Only your “friends” can see your home page.

The screenshot shows the Facebook interface from 2009. At the top, the navigation bar includes the Facebook logo, links for Home, Profile, Friends, and Inbox, the user's name 'Don Tillman', and links for Settings and Logout. A search bar is located on the right side of the navigation bar.

On the left side, there is a sidebar with navigation options: News Feed (selected), Pages, Status Updates, Photos, Links, and a More link.

The main content area features a 'What's on your mind?' text box with an 'Attach:' button and a 'Share' button. Below this, there are two photos: a glowing jack-o'-lantern and a close-up of a caramel apple. A post from 'Name of gift: `Caramel Apples`' is visible, dated '10 minutes ago', with options to 'Comment', 'Like', and 'Send a Halloween Treat!'. Below this, there are two more posts, each with a profile picture, a text box, and a timestamp ('28 minutes ago' and '35 minutes ago') with 'Comment' and 'Like' options.

On the right side, there are three sections: 'Requests' showing '1 friend request', '1 myheart request', '3 good karma', and '19 other requests from fran requests'; 'Suggestions' showing 'Dancing With The Stars'; and 'Sponsored' with a 'Connect With More Friends' section that includes an envelope icon and the text 'Share the Facebook experience with more of your friends. Use our simple invite tools to start connecting.' Below this is a text input field for 'Enter a friend's email address...'. At the bottom right, there is a 'Highlights' section with a photo and the text 'Dave & Buster's September 26, 2009'.

The top navigation bar includes the Facebook logo, links for Home, Profile, Friends, and Inbox, and the user's name 'Don Tillman' along with links for Settings and Logout. A search bar is located on the right side of the navigation bar.

The profile header for Don Tillman features a profile picture of a man in a suit and tie. Below the picture are links for 'View Photos of Me (5)' and 'Edit My Profile'. A text box prompts the user to 'Write something about yourself.' Below this is an 'Information' section showing 'Relationship Status: Married to Michelle Linet Tillman' and a 'Birthday' field with a masked date.

The 'Friends' section indicates '70 friends' and includes a 'See All' link. It displays a grid of profile pictures for several friends.

The main content area is titled 'Don Tillman' and includes tabs for 'Wall', 'Info', 'Photos', and 'Boxes'. A text input field asks 'What's on your mind?' with a 'Share' button and an 'Attach' menu containing icons for photos, videos, links, and documents. Below this is a 'RECENT ACTIVITY' section listing various actions such as 'Don and [redacted] are now friends.', 'Don commented on [redacted] link.', and 'Don became a fan of You Weren't There: The History of Chicago Punk 1977-1984.' Each activity includes a 'Comment' and 'Like' link.

So how does it work?

Twitter lets you write and read messages of up to 140 characters, or the very length of this sentence, including all punctuation and spaces. The messages are public and you decide what sort of messages you want to receive—Twitter being a recipient driven information network. In addition, you can send and receive Twitter messages, or tweets, equally well from your desktop or your mobile phone.

When you combine messages that are quick to write, easy to read, public, controlled by the recipient and exchangeable anywhere, you've got a powerful, real-time way to communicate. And real-time communication is turning out to be ground-breaking for users and businesses alike.

A brief history of Twitter

Initially inspired by the concept of an 'away-message' merged with the freedom and mobility of SMS, Twitter began as an experiment in 2006. When value as an instant communication network during shared events like earthquakes, conferences, and festivals emerged, Twitter began to grow—Twitter, Inc. was founded in 2007. Today, Twitter is a privately funded company based in San Francisco, CA.

Blogger - www.blogger.com

- What is “blogging?”
  - It is a way to publish your thoughts and ideas about anything for one or more people to read. You can also invite people to your blog.
  - It can be a web-based diary.
  - Fiction or non-fiction.
  - The movie “Julie and Julia” is a great example of that.
  - Can be for professional and personal uses
  - No paper costs with publishing ideas and stories.

Blogger - www.blogger.com

- With conventional publishing someone chooses the topic.
- With blogging you choose the topic and where it goes.
- Very liberating way to share ideas and thoughts.
- Be mindful that publishing EVERYTHING that comes to you mind may not be a great idea! Be sensible and sensitive.
- Laws of slander still apply.
- Blogging can help others (and yourself) heal and deal with life.

On the right, there are links for "Already have Skype?", "Help", and a search box. The main content area features a large video player showing a young boy with a yellow and blue striped headband playing a guitar. To the right of the video, the text reads "Free calls with Skype" and "You get Skype. Your friends get Skype. You all talk, chat and video call for free." Below this is a green button that says "Download Skype now". At the bottom, there are three sections: "Call phones from Skype" with a green phone icon, "Skype a top site for 2009" with a TIME.com award icon, and a small "Fair usage policy" link at the very bottom.

Memory Compensation Using the Pocket PC: Making Cognitive Connections for Brain Injury Survivors (Windows Mobile 5 Edition)

Authors: Michelle R. Wild, M.S. (Coastline College ABI Program) and Stacey Hunter Schwartz, Ph.D.
Publisher: ID 4 the Web
Price: $69.95

Visit pda4memory.com, our new Web site dedicated to this book series!

This textbook/workbook is designed specifically for use by brain injury survivors, who often struggle with memory difficulties as a result of the insult to the brain. We use the PDA (i.e., Pocket PC) training, applied in particular to memory compensation techniques, as a relevant real-life activity. Not only do we teach you how to use the PDA, but we also provide structured exercises to help you make cognitive connections between what you are learning to do with the PDA and your life. So we are simultaneously providing general cognitive stimulation, attempting to build specific new neural pathways, preparing you to apply what you are learning to real life, and teaching you a highly effective memory

Digital Organizers

- How are they helpful?
- Calendars can remind us of meetings, medications, appointments to help remind us to connect with friends and groups even when we forget to or don't want to.
- Notes can help us stay on track and or help our short-term and long-term memory
- Help keep important information for both us and others to help us if we cannot speak i.e. medications, medical conditions etc.
- Phone numbers - friends, doctors, pharmacies
- Games- help us chill out and or exercise our minds

Digital Organizers

- PDA's - Personal Digital Assistants
  - Palm Pilots, Windows CE-based PDA's - what has happened??
  - PDA's are very hard to find - Palm had temporarily stopped production of PDA's but not it's phones.
  - PDA's (good ones) now cost more than cell phones.
  - Cell phones/Smartphones/MP3 players have many if not most of the functionality of PDA's.
  - Many more people have/need cell phones and don't want another device.
  - More than likely, PDA's are a dying breed. PDA functions are now integrated into cell phones and some MP3 players.

Digital Organizers

- PDA's - Personal Digital Assistants
- Prices - Are quite high, cell phones are actually cheaper up front in some cases. Some CP's may be more expensive on the back-end.

Cell Phones

- Cell phones have been evolving over time
- The first ones were very simple and would maintain a list of phone numbers and names.
- Some time after that PDA's and MP3 players arrived.
- After that, we saw convergence with Palm's cell phone PDA.
- We are now in the era of that convergence. While there are still simple cell phones, there are many that are hybrids: MP3/video/cell phone/organizer.

Cell Phones

- For the BIAOH conference we have some recommendations:
  - Affordable - The phone and the plan need to be affordable over the long and short-term
  - Software - The phone needs to have a calendar and an alarm clock. This is tremendously useful for appointments and for taking medicine.
  - Screen size - The screen needs to be big enough for the person using it. Many cell phone screens are TOO tiny to be useful for calendars and alarm clocks. Be sure to test out the cell phone for a while and make sure that you are comfortable with it.

Cell Phones

- For the BIAOH conference we have some recommendations:
  - Ease of use - What good are features if they are a pain to use. If you find that you have to “live” in the user manual to get anything done, go find an easier one. Good cell phone design includes making the cell phone easy to use.
  - Spend time with the phone and make sure that it works for you! Ask lots of questions and make sure that the answers check out. Make the salesperson show the features to you and how they work. Make sure that you can “work” those features for yourself.
  - Read up on the reliability of the phone you are interested in.

Cell Phones

- Keyboards or screens? While you can use the numeric/phone pad of a cell phone to enter data, other phones have small keyboards or the screen can be a keyboard.

Cell Phones

- Prices!
  - Many cell phones will come with a “plan” or contract. Some contracts will “give” you a “free” cell phone, meaning that your monthly payments will slowly pay off the cost of the cell phone.
  - This is very useful in low cash situations where it may be hard to cough up a chunk of cash for a phone, but making monthly payments may be easier.
  - This may also be useful to those on SSD (Social Security Disability) since there is an issue with having assets worth over $2000 total. By the time the contract runs out the $ value of the asset is nearly $0.

Cell Phones / Smartphones

- Great news!
- Smartphones are all the rage now!
- There are many vendors:
  - Apple, Blackberry, Google-based Android smartphones, LG, HTC, Samsung etc.
  - Just one year ago, there were really TWO smartphones out there. Now we have a great selection and better pricing!

Netbooks

- What are they?
- They are tiny laptops that cost less than $400 typically
- Affordable and portable computing
- Great alternative to expensive and big laptops and desktops
- Some have 3G broadband built-in. $60/mo

APPLICATION DESCRIPTION

Proloquo2Go provides a full-featured augmentative and alternative communication solution for people who have difficulty speaking. It provides natural sounding text-to-speech voices (INITIALLY AMERICAN ENGLISH ONLY), up-to-date symbols, powerful automatic conjugations, a default vocabulary of over 7000 items, full expandability and extreme ease of use.

Proloquo2Go is for anyone who cannot afford spending thousands of dollars on an AAC device and yet wants a solution that is just as good if not better. SLPs, teachers and parents recommend it for children and adults with autism, cerebral palsy, down syndrome, developmental disabilities, apraxia, ALS, stroke or traumatic brain injury.

"The price is so compelling," said Dan Herlihy, owner of Connective Technology Solutions, "and the software and hardware platform Proloquo2Go runs on so radically improved over current devices in its category that if not quite a paradigm shift, markedly raises the bar for accessibility, ease of use, and affordability."

The current price is an introductory price. After a few weeks the price will be US$ 199.99 or Euro 149.99.

INCLUDED VOICES: The current version includes North American English male, female, girl and boy voices. British English voices will soon be available as an option. Support for other languages and voices is in the pipeline.

WHAT'S NEW IN THIS VERSION:

- Enhanced launch performance.
- Enhanced navigation performance.
- The speech rate is now remembered across launches.
- Changes in vocabulary: (1) added a missing number to the Numbers category; (2) added "husband" and "wife" to the My Family and People categories.

APPLICATION DESCRIPTION

iPrompts™ Version 1.0 is a customizable prompting tool for use with individuals that may benefit from having structure and visual aids throughout the day.

The application is designed especially for parents, special educators and therapists to use with developmentally challenged and language-impaired individuals, like people with Autism, Down syndrome, Fragile X syndrome, and apraxia of speech. iPrompts™ also works great with kids who just need more structure, including kids with Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and even typical, pre-verbal toddlers!

Created by the parents of a boy with Autism and a certified Speech-Language Pathologist, iPrompts™ provides several useful prompting tools to help impaired individuals transition from one activity to the next, understand upcoming events, make choices, and focus on the task at hand:

* PICTURE SCHEDULES: Allows caregivers to create sequences of pictures, guiding those they care for through activities of any sort. Schedules can have many pictures, or even just two (i.e., to create a FIRST THIS, THEN THAT picture prompt). Captions can be edited for each image, allowing users to create simple SOCIAL STORIES. To create a schedule, users can choose from hundreds of stock photos and illustrations provided by iPrompts™, select any photo stored in the "Photos" library of any iPhone or iPod touch, or take pictures "on the fly" using the iPhone's built-in camera.

* VISUAL COUNTDOWN TIMER: This feature displays an image of the caregiver's choice along with a graphical countdown timer (set to any duration), and is useful for demonstrating how much time is left until a current activity ends, or before the next pictured activity begins.

* CHOICE PROMPTS: Lets caregivers select any two images which may be offered as a choice, empowering those who cannot vocalize their preferences. When rotated horizontally, the Choice Prompt and Picture Schedule features enlarge and orient images for display to individuals needing visual support.

iPrompts™ is a portable, flexible, easy-to-use, stigma-free and "green" alternative to using Velcro-backed and laminated cards or magnet boards, and is especially helpful in reducing the frustrations of everyday life when traveling or on the go. iPrompts™ has been successfully field tested with parents who love the time it saves compared to various other tools (like CD-ROM packages) requiring tedious
