First Use

The Pet Sprinkler works in conjunction with your standard water hose.

- Securely attach the Pet Sprinkler hose to your garden hose.
- Turn on the water.

- Experiment with the pedal of the Pet Sprinkler to check the strength of the stream of water.
- Adjust the water flow until the water emerges at an appropriate level for your dog.
- Leave the unit set up outside until the weather is too chilly for the hose to resist damage.

Regular Use: Training Your Dog

There are many different training systems employed by pet owners to encourage desirable behavior; one method that may work with follows:

- Remove the dog's water bowl after installing the Pet Sprinkler.
- Take your dog out to the Pet Sprinkler and press the pedal to demonstrate.
- Take your dog's paw gently and press the pedal.
- For best results, construct an impromptu enclosure of bricks, stones or other available material to keep the unit from sliding when the pedal is pressed and to focus your dog's attention.
- During the day, take treats out to the Pet Sprinkler, press your dog's paw on the pedal and treat him when the water emerges.
- You may have to repeat these steps several times for complete training.
- As he masters pressing the pedal, withhold the treat until he starts drinking.
- The results vary based on the personality of the dog, but this method of teaching and treating will result in your dog being able to drink at will.
- When he understands the Pet Sprinkler, you may return his indoor water bowl.

Tips:

- Use a hose splitter so you can water your lawn and hydrate your pup at the same time!
- In warm weather or hot climates, consider placing the unit in the shade so the supplied water is cool.
- If the sun is very strong, you may want to place the hose in the shade as well to ensure cool water.
- Do not leave outside in cold conditions which may cause the hose to break.
