Description

- (1) DC jack 2.5x5.5mm, 1 amp maximum.
- (2) Holder for 8 x “C” batteries, (batteries not included).
- (3) Pocket with belt clip

User manual

1. Read carefully this document before using your batteries holder.
2. Your ConforTeck™ battery holder is a 12 Volts DC power source with a variable capacity, depend of what type of batteries is used, and it can provide 1 amp maximum. You can use it to power-up your small 12 Volts DC appliances. However, this battery holder has been designed to be used as a portable power source for your ConforTeck™ products (1 amp max.). For the needs of this document, we will explain this type of use.
3. Your ConforTeck™ battery holder is provided with a belt clip. Wear it to the belt, in a pocket or anywhere else that is comfortable and useful to you. However, you have to wear it inside your coat, especially when weather is very cold, to increase autonomy of the batteries.
4. NOTE : Expose your batteries to cold will reduce autonomy.
5. Wear your ConforTeck™ equipment as shown in its user's manual. Now, simply plug it to the 12 Volts DC jack of the ConforTeck™ battery holder. Et voilà!! Your ConforTeck™ is now working and will provide many hours of comfort. Autonomy is variable as the current of the equipment used, the selected power level and the batteries type. Alkaline batteries will give you more time and rechargeable batteries will probably be an economic solution. Use higher power level to rapidly increase temperature and set it back to low level for great comfort and better autonomy.
