Success Story

Kirsty & Steve

This week's success story is a case of 3 really being the magic number! Our lovely couple Kirsty and Steve are also due to celebrate their first wedding anniversary very soon, and wrote in to tell us about how they met.

We do love a good wedding here at MSF HQ and Kirsty's story really stood out for a couple of reasons - her love of 'Murder She Wrote', and the fact that her pet rabbit Luna was the ringbearer at their wedding. Awww. We're also glad that we could prove her mum wrong about internet dating being full of weirdos! :)

So on a whim a friend signed me up to MSF. I remember at first not liking what she said as she said I was an animal lover and spent a lot of time on my appearance. Both were true but I was worried that would put guys off. It felt like all other girls were 'easy going' and 'sporty' – the closest I came to being sporty was once having been to the races!

I remember the first week after I joined I waited to hear from guys or for my profile to be favoured. Embarrassingly I didn't! So I realised I had to be more proactive and start sending the first message. My only guidelines for messaging someone was that I would contact them if I had something to say – so if something about their profile or picture sparked a conversation. I also looked for guys over 5'8 in height.

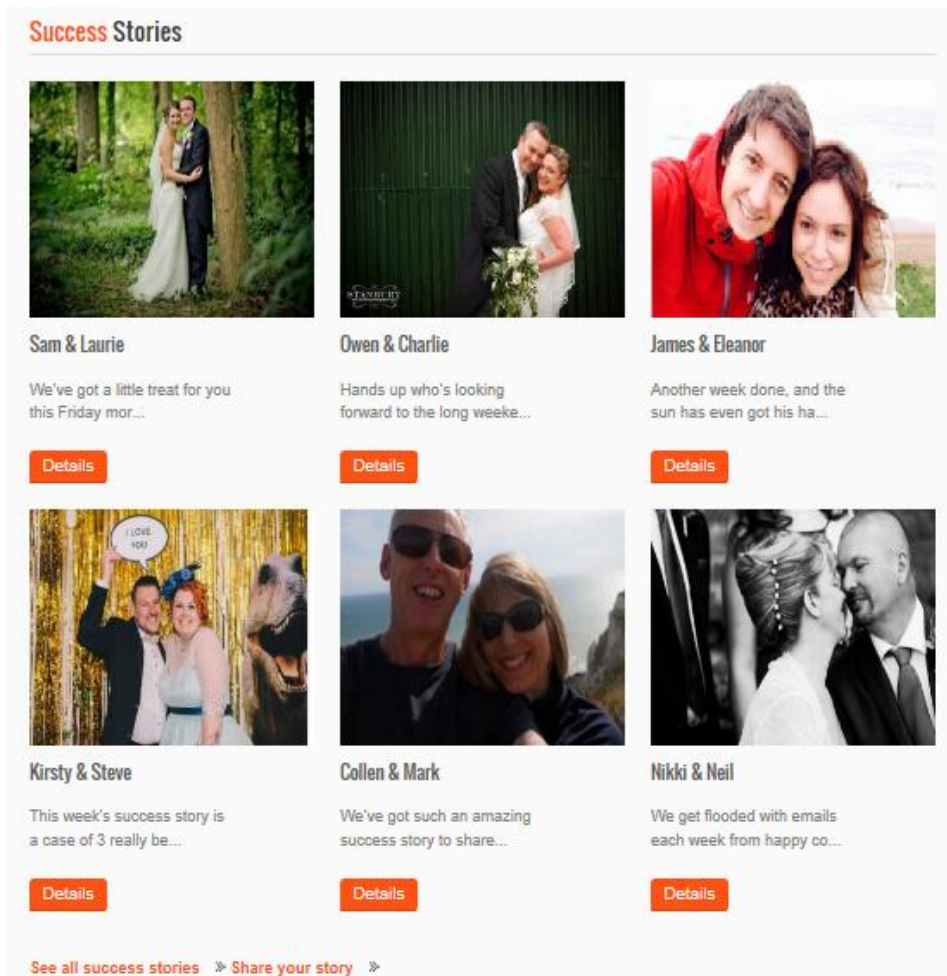

That's how I found Steve's profile. His friend had said in his description that he was like an onion. Only a couple of days earlier, my friends and I had had a conversation about what vegetable we would be. I would be a red pepper. I messaged Steve and told him that I was a red pepper. So somewhat strangely, that's how we got chatting.

Your Story: Charlie wrote to us to let us know about her online dating experiences and how she came to meet her lovely husband Owen on MSF back in 2010: "I found myself single in the summer of 2009 and working and living in the big city with lots of coupled-up friends felt like I was destined to spend the rest of my 20s on a succession of ever-more-hideous blind date (highlights included a fruitarian, a closet racist and a man who broke the ice by showing me a series of bikini pictures of his ex). Luckily I found MSF and in September 2010 a man with a nice mand and even nicer picture sent me a message berating me for my dislike of Adam Sandler. After a few more messages we had our first date in a pub in Crouch End, and three years later we got married in a barn on the South Downs, with a toast to Sarah Beeny in the speeches!
