How does this Work?

Let's take an example with a search on Title contains REARS:

Search For : Title And For : Choose	Contains v = REARS Results view: Default v Results view: Results view: Default v Results view: Result	Duick Search
Works : Both	Territory : Any
nclude Component Titles	Display OT only Original works only Wildcards enabled V Combined View V Timeout : Standard Save prefs

As you can see with this example there are 14 pages of results. In order to avoid scrolling through 14 pages of results you can use the alphabetical order facility. You can see in the above screenshot some letters are greyed-out, which means there are no results corresponding to titles beginning with the those letters. In the provided example there are results for Titles beginning with C, E, L, R, S, T or V. If you click on 'E' you'll directly obtain results with Titles beginning with E. In the provided example you can also see there are no titles beginning with non-alphabetical characters, as the '.?123' button is greyed-out.

Let's now take another example providing results containing non-alphabetical characters (.?123):

Yo	Your query : Title contains SISTERS on any territories (International and Domestic works).

Be aware that Titles are sorted in the following order:

- 1. Special non-alphabetical characters
- 2. Numeric characters.

From the results page you can jump from one letter to another and the system will automatically calculate the number of results per letter.

Use the back button on the top left of the results page to go back to previous pages.

Warnings

- CIS-Net provides you with alphabetical results on Titles whatever the search criteria you have used for your search.
- In some cases the number of results returned may change when you navigate from one letter to another (this happens when one or several database(s)/node(s) fail(s) to respond following the initial request). When it happens you will see the following message: 'Some databases which data were included in the previous results page did not answer to this request: Database X, Database Y. Therefore the total number of results has changed'.

Why Should I Use this Facility?

You should use this feature when you conduct a search that is likely to return a large volume of results (this eliminates the need to scroll through all the returned results). The most frequent use of this facility is the research through a whole right owner's catalogue of works as shown in below screenshot.
