Saving a Desktop Layout

After configuring your platform layout, you will want to save the layout for continuous use. To save your desktop layout, go to the StoxPit Master Window, click "StoxPit" on the menu bar, and then click "Save Layout". You can give your layout a custom name, then click "Accept". Now, your custom layout has been saved to your computer for future use. PLEASE NOTE: By default your layout is saved to C:\StoxPit

Opening a Saved Desktop Layout

To open one of your saved custom desktop layouts, go to the StoxPit Master Window, click "StoxPit" on the menu bar, and then click "Load Layout". You can then select from any one of your previously saved desktop layouts.

Hot Keys Configuration

On the hot keys configuration window, users can create custom key stroke patterns, on their keyboards, which will enable users to quickly enter trade orders with a custom, preset combination of key strokes.

Linking Windows

The StoxPit platform gives users the ability to link all trading windows to the same ticker symbol. Linking the level II order window, time & sales windows, and charts provides users a quick and easy way to change a ticker symbol on a single window, then simultaneously updating all linked windows with the new ticker symbol/data. To link one, or multiple windows to another, simply select a corresponding number from the upper-right corner of the platform windows.

Chart Windows

To open a new chart window, users can navigate to the "Charts" menu located on the StoxPit Master Window. Once the chart is open, users can populate chart data by typing in a ticker symbol or linking the chart window to an existing level II order window.

To zoom in and out on the chart, users can use the "-" and "+" buttons, or simply scroll the mouse wheel.
