

D6.5 User Guide for Installer of thermal insulation fenestration systems

Table of contents

- What is the Qualification Scheme?
- Why is needed? Benefits for qualification.
- Who can participate?
- What competences can be achieved?
- How to apply? Steps to follow.
- What will you learn?
- Some facts you have to know
- Useful contacts

Executive Summary

The User Guide for Installer of thermal insulation fenestration systems is addressed to the workforce in the construction sector and to the construction companies and it contains a brief based on the qualification scheme content for stimulating participation in the new developed scheme for installers of thermal insulation fenestration systems. The user guide is structured as it follows:

- The main benefits or what's in it for the worker if he chooses qualification: a certification of his skills and professional development, stability and flexibility at work, more protected, a better salary, easily promoted, to raise the quality of his work, to adapt to new technologies, to contribute to energy performance of buildings etc.
- The main competences obtained after qualification: for the initiation certificate and for the qualification certificate
- A list of the suitable occupations for the qualified worker in another occupation of the same level to be qualified for Installer of opaque thermal insulation systems (specialization or perfection course): manufacturer-Installer of insulation fenestration, assembler – Installer of aluminum profiles with double glazing windows, installer of curtain walls.
- The main conditions of access (the registration file) and steps to follow for participation in the training programs.
- The activities to be learned in the training course, for better understanding of the training content: maintenance of working equipment, providing materials for construction works, transportation for performing installation, preparation of locations for carpentry installation, installation of fenestration systems, application of independent mechanisms for carpentry.
- Some facts the worker has to know about the employer's obligation regarding his training: costs, study holiday etc.
- Useful contacts: the BUILD UP Skills QualiShell project, The National Agency for Employment and The National Authority for Qualifications.