General principles

This index is based on a set of guidelines developed within the Office of the Chief Parliamentary Counsel Victoria in accordance with standard indexing principles. Specific principles relating to such matters as the type of material indexed, how it is indexed, and the presentation of the index entries, are outlined in the sections which follow.

Scope and structure of the index

Legislation indexed

What is indexed

- All unrepealed principal public Acts and unrevoked principal Statutory Rules of Victoria as at the date of the publication. This includes principal Acts and Statutory Rules which are not yet in operation.

The titles of Acts and Statutory Rules which are not yet in operation or with provisions which are not yet in operation are printed in italics in this index.

Lists of the Acts and Statutory Rules indexed in this edition appear at the end of this index.

What is not indexed

- Repealed and revoked legislation
- By-laws, local laws and other subordinate legislation (except for Statutory Rules)
- Legislation of limited application, such as local and personal Acts and Acts relating only to particular lands
- Text of Codes and other applied or adopted laws

Subjects indexed

What is indexed

- The main subject(s) of any piece of legislation, including:
 - subjects of general interest
 - legal concepts
 - some statutory bodies and other proper nouns.
- Other subjects dealt with substantially by the legislation and considered important enough to index.
- The main occurrence(s) of certain common subjects which appear in a number of different Acts and Statutory Rules.

What is not indexed

The following subjects are generally not indexed:

- Definitions.
- Minor, insignificant references or aspects of a subject which are an integral part of another broader subject.
- Common recurring subjects concerned with the administration of legislation and considered part of the general subject to which they relate, such as inspectors, licences, fees, permits, offences, registration.
For example, the provisions relating to fishing licences, permits, fees and infringements would be found in the Acts and Statutory Rules referred to under the subject heading Fishing.

What is partly indexed

Some subjects which recur across the legislation, such as contracts, freedom of information, transport, are indexed only by reference to the Acts and Statutory Rules where they are mainly dealt with, and not when they are considered an aspect of another subject. For example:

Transport is indexed in its own right, as are particular forms of transport, such as Road transport and Public transport. The transport of specific goods and substances, however, is not indexed because it is considered as part of the subject matter relating to the specific goods and substances.

The provisions relating to the transport of food, or waste, or radioactive substances, for example, would be found in the Acts and Statutory Rules referred to under the headings, Food, Waste, and Radioactive substances respectively.

Level of indexing

Subjects are indexed by reference to the titles of whole Acts and Statutory Rules. No details are given of the parts, divisions or sections of the relevant legislation, nor of its specific application to the subject matter.

Subject headings

Principles of construction and use

The subject headings used in this index have been developed within OCPC Victoria and are based on the terms and concepts found in Victorian legislation. As far as possible, they have been constructed so that they:

- have their own inherent meaning;
- accurately reflect the treatment of the subject matter in the legislation;
- establish a single, preferred term for the one concept.

Subject headings of a general nature include all aspects of the subject.

Most subject headings consist of one or several words without further qualification.

Sub-headings

Sub-headings are used, as required, to indicate the specific aspect of the subject that is being indexed. For example:

Children
Children - Criminal proceedings
Children - Custody
Children - Forensic procedures

Terminology

The terminology of the subject headings is based as much as possible on that of the legislation. Where various terms for the one concept exist or are found in the legislation itself, the term used in the most recent legislation has been preferred in most cases.

See and see also references

See references

See references are used to direct the user from a non-preferred term to the preferred subject heading(s). For example:

Addicts
See Drug dependent persons
Contracts of sale of land
See Sale of land
Victorian Meat Authority
See PrimeSafe

See also references

See also references direct the user to related or more specific subject headings which may be relevant to the enquiry. For example:

Children
See also Minors
Petrol
See also Unleaded petrol

Some see also references consist of a phrase directing users to a series of headings, too numerous to list individually, which either all begin with the same or similar word(s) or are examples of more specific headings. For example:

Animals
See also Other headings beginning with Animals
The names of certain animals, e.g. Dogs

Using the index

Presentation of entries

A typical index entry consists of the following elements, arranged in alphabetical order within each sub-group:

- Subject heading
- See also* references (if applicable)
- Titles of principal Acts
- Titles of principal Statutory Rules

How to make an enquiry

- Think of the key terms and concepts associated with the enquiry.
- Search for these words in the index.
- Refer to the Acts and Statutory Rules listed in the index under the relevant subject headings.
- Use the table of provisions or the individual index or, if using the electronic copy, do a keyword search, to find the provisions relevant to the enquiry.

Using Victorian legislation and OCPC website

Hard copies of the Acts and Statutory Rules are published:

- as individual titles;
- as twice-yearly volumes published at the end of each parliamentary session of all the Acts assented to and Statutory Rules made in that session;
- as reprints if amended.

All hard copy publications are available from Information Victoria's bookshop or on subscription from Anstat.

Versions of legislation are published on the Victorian Legislation and Parliamentary Documents website at www.legislation.vic.gov.au, which consists of three different repositories:

- Parliamentary documents, for Bills under consideration by Parliament;
- Statute Book, for all the Acts assented to and Statutory Rules made in any one year;
- The Law Today, for all principal Acts and Statutory Rules, as amended and as in operation at any given date.

Further information relating to Victorian legislation is available under Publications on the Office of the Chief Parliamentary Counsel's website at www.ocpc.vic.gov.au. This site is linked to the Victorian Legislation and Parliamentary Documents home page and other relevant websites.
