Manual abstract:

Depending on use and environment, the HEPAtch® Filter should last four to six months. 4. Gently pull on the filter to remove it from the unit. While removing the filter, note the directional arrows printed on the top of the filter. The new filter will be installed with the same orientation. Once removed, the used filter can be discarded. 5. Remove the new filter from its wrapping and look at the directional arrows printed on the side of the filter. Install the filter with arrows pointing towards the unit. Press the filter firmly into the air purifier.

To avoid damaging the filter media, you should press on the frame of the filter only. 6. If you notice a decrease in air output or an increase in noise, the HEPAtch® Filter may be clogged. Replace it with a new HEPAtch® Filter. Then, the air travels through the HEPAtch® filter where the smaller particles are collected. Then, the ionizer releases negative ions into the air that attract positively charged dust, smoke, and pollen particles. Finally, the clean, purified air is released back into the room.
