Wireless remote control with integrated laser pointer

Whether in a meeting or during presentations, the PinPoint is the ideal companion. With the help of this wireless and light weight remote control the user can confidently work through an entire presentation.

Switching slides or activating the next animation is done with a simple click of a button - and works up to 8 metres away. Important elements can be directly pointed to and emphasised with the built-in laser pointer.

The compact size of the PinPoint allows it to rest comfortably in the hand.

A further advantage of the PinPoint is the low power consumption - the notebook battery is therefore not overburdened and retains longer-lasting operation times - even without an external power supply unit.
